Dealer Support and Marketing

At SAS, we're dedicated to helping our dealers succeed. This brochure outlines the essential support and marketing tools you need to confidently sell our security products.

Quality Brochure Investment

We are committed to ongoing investment in quality brochures to help you promote our products. Ask us for more copies to hand out to your customers.

Target Marketing

We engage in persistent direct marketing to commercial and domestic end-users to increase product awareness in the market and drive business directly back to you!

Magazine Advertising

We advertise in leading magazines to reach end users, making them aware of the security needed to protect their valuable assets in today's world.

Social Media Advertising

Our social media campaigns actively inform both dealers and end-users about our new and existing products, giving you the knowledge to better support your customers and promote sales.

Dealer Training and Support

We offer a range of training options to help you and your team select and promote the correct products for your customers.

Mobile Product Training Trailer

SAS security products are available for viewing and hands-on trial in our product training trailer. We can also provide support for special open days and trade events.

Expert Staff Training

We offer one-on-one training or video resources to give your staff the in-depth product knowledge they need to sell with confidence.
